EVENT NAME: - World Heart Day

Title of Activity*

World Heart Day

Values

Heart Health Awareness: Spreading knowledge about heart diseases, signs and symptoms, and preventive care is central.

Prevention and Early Action: Advocates for healthy lifestyles—including proper nutrition, physical activity, and stress management—to reduce risks.

Equity in Health: Highlights the global burden of heart disease, especially in low- and middle-income countries, and calls for bridging healthcare gaps.

Compassion and Empathy: Encourages individuals to care not only for their own hearts but also for others, fostering values like kindness and emotional support.

Environmental Link: Recognizes the impact of air pollution and environmental factors on heart health, promoting eco-friendly actions as part of cardiovascular care.

Learning Outcomes

Increased Awareness: Learners gain essential knowledge about heart diseases, common risk factors (such as high blood pressure, poor diet, smoking, physical inactivity), early signs, and preventive measures.

Health Literacy: Participants learn how lifestyle choices—nutrition, physical activity, stress management—directly impact cardiovascular health.

Report: Description in (min 250 to max 800 words)*

The Ashtavakra Institute of Rehabilitation Sciences and Research observed World Heart Day on 29th September 2025, aligning with the global theme "Don't Miss a Beat." The event aimed to create awareness about cardiovascular health, emphasize prevention of heart diseases, and encourage timely medical check-ups and healthy lifestyle habits among the participants.

Event Highlights

- Health Awareness Sessions: Expert talks and interactive sessions were held explaining the causes, symptoms, and preventive measures for heart diseases. Participants learned about lifestyle modifications and the importance of regular health check-ups.
- Heart Health Screening Camp: A free screening camp was organized on-site, including blood pressure measurement, cholesterol tests, and blood sugar checks, identifying early risk factors among attendees.
- Fitness Activities: Yoga and light aerobics sessions were conducted to demonstrate the role of physical activity in cardiovascular health.
- Healthy Eating Demonstration: Nutritionists presented heart-friendly diet plans focusing on reducing salt, sugar, and unhealthy fats while promoting fruits, vegetables, and whole grains.
- Community Engagement: Attendees participated in a pledge to adopt heart-healthy habits and spread awareness within their families and communities. Informative brochures and posters emphasizing the theme "Don't Miss a Beat" were distributed.

Report: Description in (min 150 to max 800 words)*

On the occasion of World Forestry Day, AIRSR students visited Yamuna Biodiversity Park as part of an educational nature walk organized by the Eco Club. This nature walk was organized to educate and sensitize students about the importance of biodiversity, environmental conservation, and sustainable practices. The central objective of this initiative was to enhance awareness regarding the role of forests in ecosystem services, including carbon sequestration, oxygen production, habitat conservation, and climate regulation.

Upon arrival at the Visitor Meeting Hall, Ms. Pritee Vorah, Head Visitor Coordinator, warmly welcomed us and delivered an introductory speech. She emphasized the importance of biodiversity, forests' role in ecological balance, and the need to preserve native flora and fauna. Highlighting forests as the lungs of our planet, she discussed their role in oxygen production, carbon sequestration, and climate regulation. She also urged community involvement in conservation through tree planting, waste reduction, and awareness campaigns.

Thereafter, Ms. Ranjeeta Sharma led an interactive guided tour, where students explored the diverse ecosystems of Yamuna Biodiversity Park and learned about various plant, bird, and animal species.

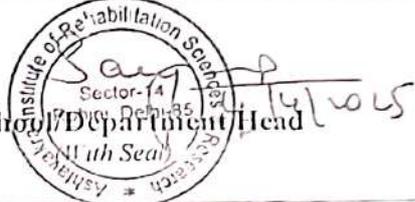

Key Highlights of the Visit:

1. Plant Diversity: Special attention was given to the Bajr-danti plant, known for its medicinal properties. Students also learned about various medicinal plants and their applications in traditional and modern medicine.
2. Bird and Animal Sightings: The group observed local and migratory bird species, understanding their ecological significance. Various small mammals, butterflies, and aquatic species were also spotted, emphasizing the importance of wetland conservation.
3. Ecosystem Interactions: Students learned how different organisms interact within the biodiversity park's ecosystem, including pollination, food chains, and habitat conservation. Discussions were held on the impact of deforestation, climate change, and urbanization on biodiversity.

At the conclusion of the visit, Eco Club Nodal Officer, Mr. Sandeep Tiwari, summarized the key takeaways and delivered a vote of thanks to all participants. He encouraged everyone to actively contribute towards environmental conservation and reaffirmed the importance of preserving forests and biodiversity for future generations.

Thank you once again and let's continue our efforts to protect and cherish our invaluable ecosystems.

To mark the occasion of International Labour Day, Ashtavakra Institute of Rehabilitation Sciences and Research (AIRSR), Madhuban Chowk, organized a community outreach and awareness activity on 1st May 2025. The event aimed to recognize and appreciate the contribution of labourers in society and promote the dignity of work.

Students and faculty members actively participated in engaging with support staff, local workers, and vendors in and around the college campus and nearby areas. Handmade thank-you cards and refreshment kits were distributed as tokens of appreciation. Short interactive sessions were conducted where students acknowledged the efforts of daily wage earners and spoke about the importance of fair working conditions and mutual respect.

The event highlighted the need to value
